

WILDERNESS IS OUR COMMON GROUND

Western Colorado is a terrific place to live because of its beautiful wild places and great recreational opportunities. I enjoy mountain biking, fly fishing, rafting, hiking, shooting and exploring in my four-wheel drive. Fortunately, there are plenty of places for all these activities, but I feel strongly that we need to protect some wilderness areas where we can explore nature and escape mechanized travel. Wild places like the Dominguez Canyons and Roubideau areas are Colorado at its best. We need to leave a legacy of natural places free from the noise and exhaust of machines, so we can always experience their quiet solitude.

Photo: Chris Herrman of Grand Junction, CO; Photo credit: Todd Patrick

HELP PROTECT COLORADO'S SPECIAL WILD PLACES

VISIT WWW.COMMONGROUND.CO.ORG

FRIENDS OF GREATER DOMINGUEZ

CAMPAIGN
for AMERICA'S WILDERNESS
www.leaveitwild.org